! More testing required to access Google Play production

We reviewed your application, and determined that your app requires more testing before you can access production.

Possible reasons why your production access could not be granted include:

- Testers were not engaged with your app during your closed test
- You didn't follow testing best practices, which may include gathering and acting on user feedback through updates to your app

Before applying again, test your app using closed testing for an additional 14 days with real testers.

For a full list of reasons, and to learn more about what we're looking for when evaluating apps for production, view the guidance.
